Who It Is For

-  Users with 32–70" flat-panel TVs
-  Those needing height adjustment for optimal viewing
-  Homeowners wanting swivel functionality
-  People requiring stable support for heavy TVs

Who It Is Not For

-  Users with TVs smaller than 32"
-  Those needing more than 88 lbs weight capacity
-  Individuals requiring VESA patterns larger than 400x400mm
-  People avoiding assembly or drilling

Trade Offs to Consider

- No built-in cable management solutions
- Limited to 9 height configurations
- Requires careful VESA pattern verification
- Tempered glass base may be fragile

How It Compares

- More stable than wall mounts with swivel
- Fewer height settings than premium models
- Simpler setup than multi-functional mounts
- Less durable glass base than solid wood options

Choose This If...

- ✓ Need adjustable viewing angle for large TVs
- ✓ Want stable support without wall drilling
- ✓ Require height customization for setup
- ✓ Prefers tempered glass base for aesthetics

Skip This If...

- ✗ Need more than 88 lbs weight capacity
- ✗ Require VESA patterns beyond 400x400mm
- ✗ Avoid assembly or drilling
- ✗ Seek advanced cable management features
